Overview:

This procedure will clarify roles and expectations of the employee, People Leader, and People and Talent related to an accommodation request to foster an inclusive workplace without causing undue hardship.

NorQuest provides a workplace that ensures equal opportunity free from discrimination based on race, colour, national or ethnic origin, religion, age, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, marital status, family status, genetic characteristics, or disability.

Authority to establish this procedure is derived from the NorQuest College Board of Governor's Policy No. 5 which delegates authority to the President and CEO to establish policies and procedures for the college's management and operation.

Duty to Accommodate:

The duty to accommodate protects individuals from being denied opportunities or being discriminated against in employment based on the protected grounds of race, colour, ancestry, place of origin, religious beliefs, gender, gender identity, gender expression, age, physical disability, mental disability, marital status, family status, source of income, and sexual orientation.

The purpose of the duty to accommodate in employment is to promote, within the bounds of reason, the ability of individuals to fairly and equally participate in the workplace through the elimination of the discriminatory effects of workplace standards.

Limits to the Duty to Accommodate:

The duty to accommodate has limits. Below is a non-exhaustive list of some practical examples of the limits to the college’s duty to accommodate:

- Accommodate where undue hardship to the college will result;
- Create an unnecessary job;
- Hire a candidate who, after being accommodated during the selection process, does not meet the essential qualifications required for the position;
• Retain an employee who is unable to meet their employment responsibilities despite accommodations; and
• Accommodate an employee’s persistent absences if the absences are unrelated to a protected ground.

Recognizing the Need for and Requesting Temporary or Permanent Accommodation:
Recognizing a potential need for accommodation can be initiated in one of two ways:
• The employee approaches their People Leader and requests an accommodation.
• Or the People Leader recognizes a need and consults with their Human Resources Consultant to explore conditions that may require an accommodation realizing they have an obligation to initiate a discussion around an accommodation.

People and Talent will facilitate the development of a written Accommodation Plan in collaboration with the People Leader, employee, and other stakeholders as required.

Through collaboration with the college’s Occupational Health and Safety (OHS) Consultant, a Jobs Demands Analysis (JDA) may also be reviewed to determine essential duties and physical requirements of the role.

A Workplace Accommodation Plan must be completed in collaboration with the area’s Human Resources Consultant and submitted to People Services for inclusion into the employee file. The Accommodation Plan will be monitored, and reassessed on a six-month basis or as business needs require. Permanent workplace accommodation requests will be reviewed to seek out reasonable permanent solutions. This may include employees placed in a new permanent or term position that meets the employee’s physical or mental abilities, or a change in FTE.
